REASSESS YOUR BUDGET

DEADLINE: WEDNESDAY, JUNE 1

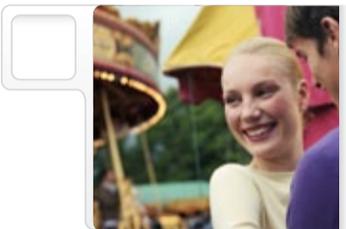

Go to the LV Budgeting Tool to make sure you're sticking to your current budget, or to create a new one if your lifestyle has changed.

UPDATE YOUR INSURANCE

DEADLINE: MONDAY, JUNE 6

If you've moved in the last year, contact your insurance providers to verify they have the correct address on file. If you've bought a new computer or other valuable item, add it to your renter's or homeowner's coverage.

MAKE A SUMMER ENTERTAINMENT GAME PLAN

DEADLINE: FRIDAY, JUNE 10

Do you want to have friends over for a long summer weekend? Host a Labor Day barbecue? Now's the time to reserve your loved ones before they make other plans—and it's also the time to give yourself an entertainment budget, think about buying food and supplies in advance (and maybe even in bulk), and brush off your BBQ skills.

SKETCH OUT YOUR LONG-TERM CAREER GOALS

DEADLINE: MONDAY, JUNE 20

The slow, languorous summertime is a good time to do some serious thinking about your career. If you've thought about changing jobs, spend this time figuring out what your ideal gig would be, shape up your resume, and prep yourself for applying in the fall (which tends to be a busier time for hiring). If you love your current job, think about where you want your career to go within the company and start giving it your all now so that you'll have a solid track record by the time you hit your end-of-year review. If you've always dreamed of starting a side business, finally put pen to paper and think out how you'd do it.

PLAN A VACATION

DEADLINE: TUESDAY, JUNE 28

Leftover vacation days mean you didn't spend enough time focused on you. Take stock of how many vacation days you have left and plan a trip to use them up. If nothing else, now is a great time to start planning fall travel—so you can score the best fares and have time to save.
